

If a picture is worth a thousand words,
then several pictures can tell a story.

That's the title of our next IPG Group Slide Show
"Tell A Story" - Sept. 27, 2010

The Idea: Pick a scene or a concept and take several pictures to illustrate it - 'bring it to life' for the viewer. The subject is up to you.

If your subject is "The Statue of Liberty", you might take the statue from different angles, with different lenses, use different effects. OR you might tell the story of your trip there with images that show how you arrived, what are the different things you saw, or illustrate people's reaction or how they felt.

If your subject is "Statues", you might take several different statues but from a similar angle, or similar light, or apply the same effect to each - so they go together as a group.

5-10 images would be normal.

Mini-Slideshows: Each photographers work will be shown together, followed by time for comment.
If you choose, you may prepare your own slideshow.

Submit your 5-10 images(resized for IPG), or a slideshow you prepared of the images, to IPGDigital@gmail.com by Sunday September 19
